VLAN-toolbox at DE KLEINE KOMEDIE VLAN-toolbox series

A KLEINER START FOR A BIG IDEA

Times change, and so do our needs and wants. The entertainment industry never keeps still, which means that you always have to go with the times if you don't want to be left behind. Therefore, in its striving for fun and practicality, SRS Group, together with Paul van Schaik, have developed a network switch with expansive functionality and a stunningly simple interface – the SRS LIGHTING VLAN-toolbox. In a beautiful union of new and old age, the first devices were installed in De Kleine Komedie – the oldest surviving theatre in Amsterdam, the Netherlands.

THE SETUP

The installation features three VLAN-toolboxes in total and spans across the entire theatre. The smaller, 1U, VLAN-toolbox is located in the front of house (FoH) and, conveniently, is the only one connected to a laptop. In a setup featuring over 20 devices and fixtures, it is truly incredible how only the minimal use of a laptop is needed to manage a network like this. At the same time, the SRS LIGHTING switch is also connected to an audio desk and a light desk, which allows for communication of audio and video protocols further down the network, created by the three VLAN-toolboxes and everything that is connected to them.

The first and smallest 1U VLAN-toolbox is
